It Cannot Be Quiet
You'll Buy Stocks Again
100 Per Cent Tax on Crime
April 30 Was, Wale-Dance
By Arthur Brisbane

JEREMIAH, WHOSE specialty was lamenting, wrote, "There is sorrow on the sea. It cannot be quiet." You may substitute "Wall Street" for "sea," and it will still be accurate. There is sorrow in Wall Street, and it also cannot be quiet.

Yesterday morning when "the Street" heard that the budget was balanced, stocks went up, and all was as gay as the playing of fountains at Versailles. Then somebody began thinking, and the fountains stopped spouting. The thinker, perhaps, said to himself: "The budget is balanced. If the budget balancing is done on the assumption that 'soaking the rich' will yield all that is hoped for, As well rely on selling bonds of the unions. There are no unions, although you may see them ornamenting Gothic poetry and Britain's coat of arms.

Also, there are few rich left to be "soaked." You cannot get New York, lair of the rich, the same Jeremiah said of another great city.

"Concerning Damascus, Hamath is confused, and is not sure for they have heard evil tidings. They are faint-hearted." Pick out any two of the former "very rich" and they will answer the description of Hamath and Arpad. However, it will pass, and you will be buying stocks and wondering why you did not buy at the bottom.

New York city may be in the days of Jeremiah, but New York has more money.

Yesterday, Mr. Berry, New York's comptroller, announced that he had collected in one day more than seventy-four million dollars in taxes, more than on the same day in 1931.

To some extent the misfortunes of property owners similar to tax paying. A man with mortgages must pay taxes or have his mortgage foreclosed. Many that would let taxes run dare not do so on account of the mortgage holder.

The Senate on Tuesday voted to tax 100 per cent all incomes earned through violations of state or federal laws.

This indicates the opinion that our government is more efficient in raising taxes than in stopping crime. And that opinion is sound. We collect taxes, we do not check crime.

With a 100 per cent tax, bootleggers, racketeers and the army of crooked politicians will have nothing more to do with money. Even the tax collector in his box at home will not be safe from a vigilant government prying.

One million Britishers went to see April the Fifth, a 100-to-6 underdog, with the Derby. Millions were lost on the favorite. The King and Queen Mary and all their children saw the horses run, and the night before the Derby Mrs. Amelia Earhart flew, out of Atlanta, in a biplane, danced three times with the prince of Wales at a charity ball. It was an exciting day and night in London.

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia believes he has a bill for increasing the money supply. He would make all banknotes legal tender as a basis for issuing currency, about a billion dollars.

Catch Convict in Stolen Auto

One of Four Who Fled Prison Camp Picked Up When Car Stalls in Springfield

A stalled stolen automobile brought capture today for John Anzivino, 25, of Columbia ave., Newton Upper Falls, one of four men who escaped March 7 from Middlesex County House of Correction in Billerica.

Anzivino was arrested in Springfield with Ernest Le Rue, 32, of Jersey City, when their automobile, reported stolen Tuesday from the garage of Paquette De Balah, Huyton at Newton Centre, displayed motor trouble.

A policeman who investigated found they had no registration for the car and that the plates on the car had been reported stolen in Charleston early yesterday.

Anzivino gave the name of John Tilio, but was recognized by Newton police when they went to Springfield to bring him back on the army of stealing the car.

Anzivino told police that after the Billerica escape, he and his three companions spent four days and nights in the woods, then went to East Boston, where they spent a day, after which they separated.

Since then, he said, he had been in New Jersey most of the time, and there met Le Rue, who came home early in the week for a surreptitious visit to his wife and child.

Two of the men with whom he broke jail have been captured piecemeal, but the fourth is still at liberty.

Three men were arrested. Timothy J. Coffey of South Boston, a member of the old South End gang and a suspect in the last previous outbreak in the South End in December was seized near the scene after he had been badly beaten.

HELEN HAYES SUEDED BY M'ARTHUR'S FORMER WIFE 20-FT. DROP WAS HER GREETING TO DAD HUB 'REMITTANCE MAN' FEARED SLAIN ON COAST

$100,000 DEMANDED OF HER

Helen Hayes, stage and screen star and mother of the famous "Act of God" baby. She is being sued for $100,000 by Caryl Frink MacArthur, former wife of Playwright Charles MacArthur, present husband of Miss Hayes.

$100,000 ASKED BY THE FORMER CARYL FRINK

Mother of Famous 'Act of God' Baby, Now on Her Way to Europe, Named Defendant

Chicago, June 2 (AP)—Helen Hayes, stage and screen actress, has been made defendant in a suit for $100,000, instituted in circuit court by Caryl Frink MacArthur, first wife of the actress' husband, Charles MacArthur, playwright.

The basis for the action was not disclosed. Gerald T. Wiley, attorney for the first Mrs. MacArthur, said he would file the declaration within a week.

The suit was suppressed until today by Judge Brothers, but service was obtained while Miss Hayes was en route to Europe. The suit was filed in "The Good Fairy" in a Loop theater last week.

Caryl Frink MacArthur, movie critic on the Chicago Herald and Examiner, several years ago she was unsuccessful in an effort to have their divorce set aside by Illinois courts.

Miss Hayes, about the time of that court action, became the mother of the famous "Act of God" baby, so called because of the quarrel between Actors Equity, MacArthur and the New York theater producer with whom she was under contract when she left the stage as motherhood approached.

Mr. Wiley indicated the first Mrs. MacArthur shortly would file a petition for adjustment of her alimony. By the terms of the divorce decree she was to receive ten per cent of the royalties from her husband's first play, "Lulu" amounting to $4000. "Lulu" has been held in reserve, as she has refused to accept it.

Helen Hayes and MacArthur on Way Abroad

New York, June 2 (AP)—Helen Hayes, defendant in a $100,000 suit in Chicago, walked on May 29 for a vacation in France, accompanied by her husband, Charles MacArthur.

MacArthur married Miss Hayes in September, 1928, several years after his first marriage ended in divorce.

CHELSEA MAN IS FOUND DEAD

Believed to have been stricken with heart failure when a step-ladder broke while he was feeding his canaries, Merion Tashiro, 64, of 122 Poplar st., Chelsea, was found dead in the rear room of his cabler shop at 127 Chestnut st., Chelsea.

Celia Goodman, 17, of 182 Chestnut st., and Lillian Weinberg, 15, of 63 1/2 st., Chelsea, discovered the body when they went into the shop to have a pair of shoes repaired.

The cobbler was lying on the floor of the rear room. While the older girl threw water on him in an attempt to revive him, the other girl ran next door and notified a neighbor.

Because a broken step-ladder was on the floor beside him and bird seed was scattered about, police said they believed a step broke while he was up on the ladder feeding the two birds and that Tashiro's heart failed when he fell with the ladder.

Parrot Out as Witness in Killing

Conroe, Tex., June 2 (AP)—A jury considering the evidence in the murder trial of Durrell Kendall will not have the benefit of any information a squawking green and gold parrot might have injected into the puzzling case.

The bird was heralded as a possible "witness" for the State, which sought to convict Kendall, a native of Mississippi, of killing Lou H. Brownlee and Martha Smith with an axe. However, the objection to its introduction was sustained.

The screams of the parrot last December 10 led to discovery of the bodies, mutilated with axe and saw, in a field near the home of New Caney, Tex. Some persons thought the parrot, if suddenly confronted with the slayer might show an incriminating sign of recognition.

was the purchase of a bottle of ether and a 25-foot length of rubber hose.

Back in the apartment the mourning dresses were donned by the girls. The hose was attached to the kitchen range, stretched through the living room to the bedroom, a great chamber with two double beds, shared by the girls.

A note signed by Vincenza was meant for the mother when had gone. It read:

"Goodbye, dear mother of mine, you passed away at 2 o'clock, and your four daughters, Maria, Josephine, Lucia and I, had enough courage to kill ourselves, as we go crazy without you. We kill ourselves at 10 o'clock in the evening."

The other letter, written by the father, was more a formal record of their weirdly planned pact. It read:

"My wife and our mother died on account of the sorrow of the loss of her son, and our brother. We are committing suicide as we cannot live without her."

The father and all four of the girls signed the letter.

Both notes were sealed and carefully placed in the pockets of an electric lamp. Pictures of the family were placed on the table, too, where they might be seen from both beds. Religious images were placed on the wall.

Matilda and Guadalupe lay on the bed. The youngest, feared, perhaps, that she might break under the strain. She swallowed the contents of the ether bottle.

The other bed Carlos, the father, lay down beside Vincenza. It was the last night of the family, for the father, for while the others were covered with blankets, her body was found uncovered on the bed beside Vincenza.

MONKS, RICH FAMILY SGT. DISAPPEARS

Had Been Receiving $1000 a Month From Relatives in This City

San Diego, Cal., June 2 (INS)—"Far East" Alan Bradford Monks, 58-year-old "romantic man" and member of a wealthy and socially prominent Boston family, had been murdered, was expressed today by officers after a widespread search for him had failed.

Monks, officers said, had been a virtual prisoner for the two months in a "mystery cottage" in Oceanside and had been allowed to see only his wife.

Recently, neighbors told officers, the cottage was visited and the occupants vanished.

Warrants have been issued for the arrests of Monks' wife, formerly known as the "Catalina" Street, and her uncle, William Watson, 75, on charges of using $2000 worth of checks.

Monks had received $1000 a month from Boston until six months ago when relatives who had not heard from him for two years, ceased sending the money.

Additional mystery related the case after a photograph assembly of Monks was forwarded by Oakland photographer to Monks' father, who refused to accept it as that of Monks.

Monks had been living in the cottage with his wife, formerly known as the "Catalina" Street, and her uncle, William Watson, 75, on charges of using $2000 worth of checks.

JAP UNDER ARREST

Albert J. Sawyer, a San Diego accountant, is under arrest in Berkeley, Cal., on a bad check charge and officials here said that a woman arrested with him and subsequently released was Monks' wife.

Dist. Atty. Thomas Whelan refused to reveal who he had ordered George F. Orosko, 42, a Japanese, held in San Francisco, other than to declare that Orosko had resided in the Oceanside cottage with Monks.

15-Minute-Old Baby Operated on for Appendicitis

New York, June 2 (INS)—An unusual operation involving the removal of a baby's appendix immediately after its birth was revealed today at the Prospect Heights Maternity Hospital.

Upon birth the infant, a three-pound boy, born to Mrs. Florence Bryan, was found to be suffering from a hernia which would have proved fatal.

An immediate operation was imperative.

Before the baby was 15 minutes old it was on an operating table under a light anesthetic.

At the age of 40 minutes the child was safely in the arms of the mother. Since then, Mrs. Bryan gained one pound and one ounce.

Hospital officials said the baby should grow up to be a healthy, normal child.

Julius Stone was under cross-examination all day yesterday by W. Barton Leach, counsel for Dr. James Clarke, sister of the deceased.

The session was marked by several charges of counsel and at one point Judge Stone admitted in answer to a question by Leach that he had a grievance against the latter. Judge Stone explained in detail his administration of the estate.

Dr. Inez Clarke is contesting the allowance of the accounting and alleges misappropriation of funds from her sister's estate.

TIE STILL BINDS

Today there is no Del Rio family. All are dead.

Yet in death the family tie still binds them. Five who had lived those deaths by their own hands to life with the family bond severed by the death of the mother, who, in turn, had grieved herself into a fatal illness because of the death of her only son a year ago.

FAMILY TIE STILL BINDS 5 IN GRIEF PACT

Life Without a Mother Meant Nothing to Those She Left When Death Summoned

New York, June 2 (INS)—The Del Rio family lived for one another. For Carlos Serafin Del Rio, once prosperous lingerie manufacturer and before that a chemist in Buenos Aires. Life meant nothing sweeter than living to bring happiness to his wife, Matilda, and the children.

Matilda Del Rio's supreme ambition was to be a good wife to Carlos, and a good mother to Carlos, Jr., to Guadalupe, to Vincenza, to Josephine and to Matilda, even though the father, who, in turn, had grieved herself into a fatal illness because of the death of her only son a year ago.

PROBE INCOME OF WALKER'S BROTHER

New York, June 2 (AP)—Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, it was learned today, have started investigating the income and income tax returns of Mayor Walker's brother, Dr. William H. Walker, who, according to evidence introduced yesterday while he was on the witness stand before the Hildreth commission, banked $100,000 a year.

This has been the first time they have followed up on a report that Dr. Walker's income had been investigated by the city.

More than a week ago it was stated they were investigating the mayor's income.

Samuel Seabury today was reported engaged in drawing up removal charges against the mayor to present to Gov. Roosevelt.

Such action seemed indicated by his declaration the mayor could be removed under the city charter provisions because testimony showed he had let bonds of the Bellanca Bros. and Steel Co., which was sued by the city for erecting traffic standards in Fifth ave.

CHARGES 'MALICE'

Mayor Walker, in Detroit when the situation evidence was produced, issued a statement charging Seabury with 'malice and unfairness' and denying grounds for removal.

The committee, which commenced a month of fact-finding sessions with Mayor Walker on Tuesday last, today and the final Seabury revelations and which now rests on the investigation into alleged corruption in the city, adjusted until after the national convention.

Further public hearings were not anticipated until autumn, when Seabury plans to present constructive proposals for reforming the city's administration.

Says Radio Cannot Replace Classroom

Chicago, June 2 (AP)—President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern University believes radio can never replace actual classroom instruction as an educational device.

"Simulation of an exchange of ideas can be found only in the school room," he said. "Lecture, even fact, is accepted only after its veracity has been challenged, learning is simply a trick of memory."

Franco Favors World Parity

Paris, June 2 (AP)—France today with favor on a proposal for a world economic conference, it was announced today in authoritative circles, but there has been no official invitation in such a conference.

MELLON IN KNEE PANTS

Wear Silk 'Shorts' at Derby Dinner

London, June 2 (AP)—United press where court dress is prescribed he will wear breeches.

In silk knee breeches last night at the Derby Day dinner given by Lady Ellenore at Bridgewater House.

Queen Mary and the Duchess of York were there but the king was entertaining racing friends at the traditional Derby Day dinner in Buckingham Palace.

Invitations to the dinner at Bridgewater House specified court dress. It is understood that Mr. Mellon has decided that when he attends a palace function as the American ambassador he will dress as he would at a similar affair at the White House but that when he is merely invited as Mr. Mellon to

SOUTHSIDE FACING SWEET BATTLES OVER TAXES

Atlanta, Ga., June 2 (AP)—Primary skirmishes over seats in Congress have opened the prohibition question in traditionally dry Dixie. Six states, regarded as dry as Democratic tides, have found clear cut issues of referendum, repeal or submission to state legislatures in campaigns of candidates for the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives.

Militantly dry Alabama, prohibiting the sale of anything that looks, tastes or foams like beer, has two Senatorial candidates, a run-off who favor a referendum.

In Florida, Congressman Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the great dry campaigner, the late William Jennings Bryan, says she will vote to resubmit the 18th amendment to the states. The veteran Florida dry, Congressman Herbert J. Drane, likewise will support a referendum.

North Carolina has on a three-cornered Senatorial race between the incumbent, Senator Cameron Morrison, Commissioner of Labor Frank Grant, who favors referendum, and Robert R. Reynolds, Asheville lawyer, who announced on a wet platform.

Five Virginia congressional members, Representatives Drewry, Montague, Tucker, Smith and Lankford (R.), have indicated the submission. Henry Wise has announced against. Representative Bland on a wet platform.

The second Tennessee district has a Democratic candidate for Congress who recently successfully defended in federal court in Knoxville his own case on a charge of possessing a still. In the third district, Judge Walter Cannon of South Pittsburg is running on a referendum platform against the incumbent, Representative Sam D. McPherson.

W. G. Hutton of Little Rock has entered the primary against Senator Hattie Caraway with an announced for repeal.

The prohibition issue has been injected into both congressional and Senatorial campaigns in Georgia. Representative Homer C. Fricker for referendum, while Mrs. Regina Rambo Benson is a repeal candidate. Clement E. Dunbar, Augusta, Ga., lawyer, has announced on a referendum platform.

Jap Death Room Viewed by Charlie Chaplin

Tokyo, June 2 (AP)—Charlie Chaplin ended a three week visit to Japan today and sailed for Seattle from Yokohama on the steamer Hikawa Maru. It is due to arrive June 14. Before he left he paid a visit to Premier Adachi and asked to see the room in which former Premier Bryan's funeral was held.

BONUS ARMY DUG IN "TILL 1945"

Elzie Robinson, known to millions of newspaper readers for her "Lulu" column, visited the camp of the "bonus army" on the outskirts of Washington. In the following article she sets down her impressions of the camp and the men who have trekked across the continent on what officials say is a wild goose chase.

By ELZIE ROBINSON
International News Service (New York)

Washington, June 2 (INS)—(By Elzie Robinson)

Leaf-strewn avenues, astmy dark pavements, frazzling suddenly into a junk-littered area of scabby earth.

A half-demolished house with an empty window socket. Through it, the pale, lovely bubble of the Capitol dome. Busted bed springs. Rolling paper, oozing with garbage. Brick-dust grit—beneath your heel, between your teeth. Jagged ends of old iron sticking out of the pitted ground like splintered bone. Thunder in the air, and the sour stink of ashes.

"SOME SWEET TURTLE"

In the middle of the lot, a scrawny, sunburnt man, intimated khaki is squatting over a plank, mauling at something red and wobbly. The thing slips from his hand, blood spurts to the man's elbow. He jerks it back, spits out a bubble.

There, men standing, waiting. One of them, a big black fellow, cowboy from Texas, is bulging with hunger. He is eating a piece of the plank into the ground. The others are waiting. The man is waiting. The man is waiting.

"It's such some sweet turtle, bud," he mumbles, reassuredly. "I've got to eat it up."

He is waiting. The man is waiting. The man is waiting.

HONTS ON WAY

The cowboy and the lumberjack wait. So does the rest of the lot. The man is waiting. The man is waiting. The man is waiting.

He is waiting. The man is waiting. The man is waiting.

HOPES TO BE "LEADER"

He said the "leaders" decided on that. After some debate as to who the leaders were, Rep. Bigelow said: "You ought to know."

"I'd hope to be one soon," replied Goodwin, referring to his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor. This remark brought applause from the crowd.

Former City Councilman James J. Zerry said: "I'd like to be one soon, too. I'd like to be one soon, too. I'd like to be one soon, too."

Goodwin added the committee for recommending a candidate for the election for governor. This remark brought applause from the crowd.

He is waiting. The man is waiting. The man is waiting.

He is waiting. The man is waiting. The man is waiting.

VETS' ADVANCE STIRS ALARM IN CAPITAL

By the Associated Press

The news of going to Washington to demand in person payment of a soldier bonus started less than two weeks ago by a group in Illinois, had spread largely over the West and South today.

There were already 1500 of the veterans in Washington, and, having received word that hundreds more were either on route or about to start, authorities there were beginning to worry about how they were to be fed.

TEXAS VETS GATHER

Dallas, Tex., reported veterans were gathering all over the State for a march to Washington, and at Fort Worth a group, following the example of the crowd in Illinois, clambered aboard an east-bound train. Most of them, it was believed, were veterans.

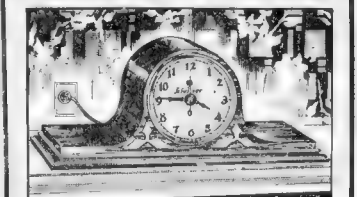

Veterans from Chicago and Detroit were expected to join with thousands today at Toledo, and more thousands today were traveling through Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania Railroad furnishing them transportation.

NEW YORK RECRUITS

Between 200 and 250 were advancing northward from Louisiana and Florida, 200 expected to leave New Orleans today, late today, and 200 more planned to start from St. Paul, Minn., Saturday. Another large group expected to leave Oklahoma today, between 300 and 500 started from Camden, N. J., yesterday, and in New York a group was being recruited to start June 4.

Tech Man Heads McKinley Quetz

Chicago, June 2 (AP)—The University of Chicago has announced that it will head the project of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, would take over the coming year's expedition on Mt. McKinley of the late Allen Carpe, who was killed recently in a fall while digging in, if necessary, till Jan. 1, 1935.

JAP CHIEF SEES NO SOVIET WAR

Tokio, June 2.—Viscount Matsuoka, Japan's premier and foreign minister, asserted today in a written statement that there is absolutely no danger of war between his country and Soviet Russia.

"The Japanese Government has stated repeatedly that an danger of war with the Soviet Union is not a danger of war with the Soviet Government," he said, "the attitude of the Japanese Government respecting affairs in Manchuria has been perfectly correct, and we only wish that the Soviet Government might see a way to remove such a further source of confidence in Japan's sincerity as would enable the Soviet Union to discontinue all concentration of troops in the Far East."

"Annexation of Manchuria certainly is not desired nor does Japan wish to control in any illegitimate way the policy of the Manchoukuo authorities."

"The question of sending more Japanese troops to Manchuria depends entirely upon circumstances."

JOHN LEEDEES MACFAYDEN TO WRESTLE AT FENWAY

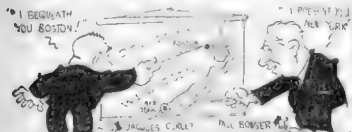

FANNING

With GEORGE UNDERWOOD

Wrestling War Over. Box Lacrosse Debut.
Bousier Bags Boston. Curley Gets Gotham.

Giving You Real Low Down on a Few Things

It may be one of the fake armistices such as preceded the real one back in those war, red days of 1918, but anyway, a little bird whose chirping never yet has proved wrong, tells us that an under cover truce has been declared between the two great wrestling trusts and a reformation of the wrestling map is under way. We are told that a Charlie Strick vs. Jack Wamborn match here will precede the evacuation of Toots Mondt and the Curley herd of pachyderms from the Boston Garden and, after three big summer binges here, Paul Bousier and his troupe of blemishes will move right in the North Station. In return for acquiring sole control of the New England sector of the wrestling front, Bousier will give up his New York holdings and allow Jacques Curley once more to reign supreme over the grant and groaners in Gotham. There will be matches between stars of the rival groups. The Boston Arena, we understand, will be given over to occasional shows promoted by conies Alex MacLean and Charlie Gordon.

The move is a wise one and is sound business judgment. This is as much a Boston institution as Curley is a New York wrestling lion. It has been given too much wrestling and the game will not stand the continued strain. Long ago we told you that even Pat would rebel if the good woman insisted feeding him tied Mike and Vinlets every other day and that the feeling him would get the walls if promoters attempted to stage three wrestling shows every week of the year. Under the new wrestling shuffle there will be fewer but better grunts and groans.

Box lacrosse will make its Boston debut, tonight, when the Boston Shamrocks and the N. Y. Giants lift the lid at Fenway Park. Lacrosse is a Canadian game handed down from the Indians. But box lacrosse, stepchild of lacrosse, was parented by Lehigh University and Dog Racing in far off Australia. Two former Lehigh colleagues, engineering in the Antipodes, went to the dog races. They didn't find the bow-wow derbies interesting but they did find the system of lighting the field very interesting. "What's the matter with lighting our own field and playing lacrosse evenings?" they asked themselves. Playing space under the lights was limited so they shortened the field and changed the game to the present style of box lacrosse. Canada tried the new game out last year and it went big. Hence, the formation of the International Lacrosse League which opened its season tonight.

Wrestling and boxing news in circles. Interest rises and wanes. Boxing interest has waned since Dempsey's downfall here. It is rising in Europe. If you don't think so, then explain how the recent Carstairs bout in dock off London attracted a crowd of 75,000. That smacked all European records for ring attendance.

A flick of correspondence chronic, "Who is this Larry Gaines?" Who is this gent who gave big Primo such a shakedown? Larry has been around quite some time. The Canadian began started as a middleweight, graduated into a light heavyweight and is now a full fledged two-pounder. He held Mike McGuire to a 10-round draw the year McGuire beat Benfien for the title. As a light heavyweight, he beat Charlie Beisner for the Canadian title. Larry stopped Max Schmeling in four rounds in the days when the present world's heavyweight champion was serving his sentence. If you seek to verify this by either the Everlast or Tom Andrew's record books you will go wrong, for in both those publications Schmeling is credited with the victory over Gaines. Which is all wrong, Max, all wrong! Schmeling quit. Gaines also beat Jack Remick and George Gidycz and knocked out the much knuckled out Earl Serry. Recalling his victory over Gidycz, Gaines twice was knocked out by Big Gower, and he also blew a New York Double to Martin Burke in a bout that smelt all the way to the Limburger. But make no mistake about Mister Gaines' ability, to fight when he has the bottom off.

Reports on Lancers are conflicting. Cable dispatches say the Ambing Alp is returning to America accompanied by Miss Leon Bee. Other reports have it she is to be left behind and Currier is coming here in charge of Good Time Charlie Friedman, agent of your old pals, Billy Duffey and Owen Madden.

Reference to Owlie Madden reminds us that our own Owlie, Owen Carroll, erstwhile of Holy Cross, has found himself under Dan Howley and is putting some great ball for the Reds. All Owlie needed was regular money duty. Howley is giving it to him. Unless our memory is wrong, Owen was dug up by the late Johnny Mooney and sold to Detroit when Ty Cobb was manager. He failed to click. Two years ago Carroll was traded to the Yankees in the Hoyt deal. Cincinnati got him for the waiver price and now Howley has Carroll working like a mound wizard.

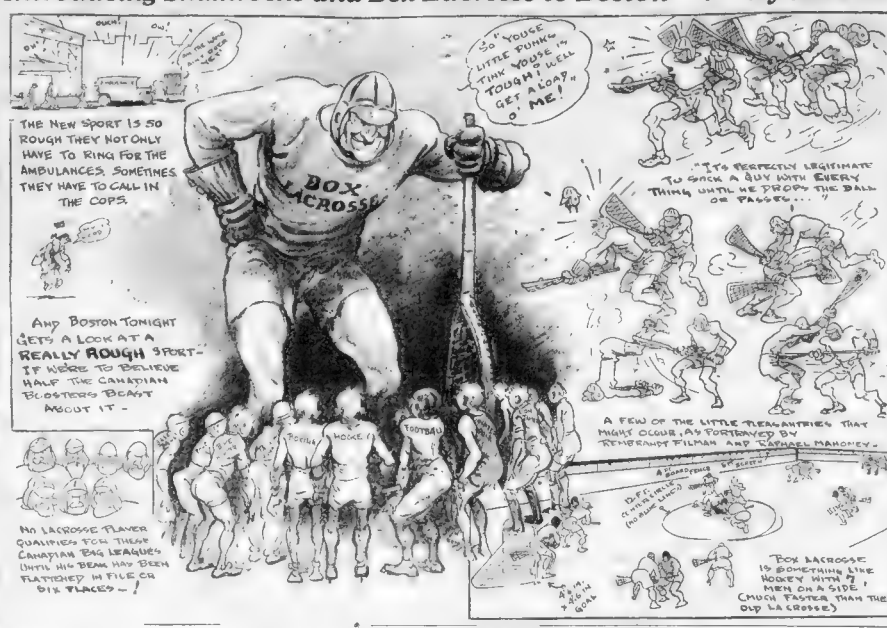

Howley is hitting on all cylinders in Cincinnati. Redland fans want him for major. Weymouth Dan's rebuilding of the Reds and his manipulating of the players is the talk of the big leagues. Under Howley, the giant Ernie Lombardi has found himself, just like Carroll Lombardi is passing the old apple at a 400 clip and is pegging like a Johnny Kling and beating Jimmy Archer. Last week the tip went out apparently that Ernie was weak behind the bat. Any way, they started to run wild on him. Ernie nailed seven of 'em and now they're going to the bats. In Lombardi's hitting, he has committed his 438 average with an "interlocking grip," as in golf. A blitzer on the little finger of his throwing hand and he gets the bat like the gators. Ernie places the little finger of his right hand between the first two fingers of his left hand as he grips the bat.

Looking around the baseball circuit it appears a bouquet should be handed Van Hook, the Brooklyn rector. He has won four games in ten days for the Dodgers, which is something of an Iron Man. Joe McGinnity said these days. The young right hander has supplanted Dazzy Vance as Brooklyn's pitching ace. But his brother is coming and old Dazzy is a hot-wounded pitcher.

Introducing Shamrocks and Box Lacrosse to Boston -- By Jenkins

THE NEW SPORT IS SO ROUGH THEY NOT ONLY HAVE TO RING FOR THE AMBULANCES, SOMETIMES THEY HAVE TO CALL IN THE COPS.

AND BOSTON TONIGHT GETS A LOOK AT A REALLY ROUGH SPORT. IF WERE TO BELIEVE HALF THE CANADIAN BLOODYERS BEAT ABOUT IT.

NO LACROSSE PLAYER QUALIFIES FOR THAT CANADIAN LINE LEAVES HIM IN A SWIM. HE'S BEEN TATTOOED WITH COPS ON HIS TAIL.

Box Lacrosse in Debut at Fenway Tonight

By BILL GRIMES

In the opening game of the American Lacrosse League, the Boston Shamrocks will clash with the New York Giants tonight at Fenway Park.

The game will start at 8:15 o'clock and will comprise three 20-minute periods with 10-minute intermissions. This contest will mark the introduction of box-lacrosse in New England. Although lacrosse originated in the tribes of the Six Nations and is an extremely popular sport in some sections of this country, it has never been played in this vicinity except in colleges.

Box-lacrosse, according to Al Niles, manager-coach of the Boston team, was started by several former Lehigh University players in Australia who were unable to find enough men for the regulation size of 12 players. Last season a four-team league operated successfully in Canada.

and the promoters of the American Lacrosse League are confident that the fans in this country will take to the game as they have to ice hockey.

In many respects, box-lacrosse is similar to ice hockey. It is a very fast game and decidedly rough. The teams consist of six players each and is played in a high-walled box, 200 by 100 feet in area.

Boston will be represented by one of the best teams in the league. Coach Al Niles, who was the lacrosse mentor at Princeton for 15 years, has signed up four members of the United States 1928 Olympic Lacrosse team, and also four Canadian players, including Paul Mackenzie, former Brown football captain and All-American kicker.

The only reason Larry didn't knock Bruno in his recent fight in London was that Primo is too tall to fall down in the distance of rounds.

KID CHOCOLATE 'Loaded' Gloves Gave Jackie Cooper Sock

By JACK CONWAY

Jackie Cooper, eight-year-old moving picture star, can punch. Jack Sharkey told me so and he gives his reasons.

The youthful Cooper banged into Sharkey's camp at Orangeburg N. Y., to see the American heavyweight champion in training for his 15-round world's heavyweight championship bout with Max Schmeling, which takes place at the Garden's new bowl on Long Island on June 21.

Cooper posed for pictures with Sharkey. Then he proved his punching power. Let Sharkey tell the story.

"I got a kick out of meeting Jackie Cooper," said Sharkey. "Gee, I'm as much of a movie fan as he is a boxing fan. They tell me Mrs. Sharkey looks like Norma Shearer."

"We seen Jackie in most of his films, and I think he's a war. When he came to my camp he was all conversation. He's only eight years old, but has the intelligence of a boy of 15. He was cracked me overboard. He's around with people so much older than himself that he has picked up their chatter.

"After we posed for pictures, Jackie wanted to punch the small bag. I got him a pair of punching bag gloves. Three gloves are quite small, but in the front part of them where one grips there is a small piece of lead.

"The idea of the lead is to make the gloves heavy. A boxer strengthens his arms while punching with the heavy gloves, which are not cumbersome on account of the small piece of lead which a fellow's arm would tire from holding his dukes up if it were not for this kind of training.

"I neglected to tell Jackie about the lead in the gloves. When he finished punching he had he walked over to a member of his party. He didn't want to hit him with his closed fists for fear of hurting him. So he punched his left glove and slipped him. The lead landed first almost on the young man's head. Jackie didn't know what happened and thought his friend was acting queer.

"I later explained the matter to Jackie and he told me he didn't want the punching bag gloves to wear them. I instructed him to wear them. I rather helpful tip, I'd say. Guess I won't need them, though. My hands are harder than they have ever been, and when I hit Max he'll think my gloves are loaded with lead."

Old-Timers Used Bolls in Their Gloves

"The most dangerous thing ever pulled into a boxing glove," said Jack, "was a boll such as they use putting railroad ties into cushion. Instructions were and their managers have resorted to this practice.

"The boll is slipped to the edge between rounds. It holds in his closed glove on one edge even with the top of the glove. When he gets the opportunity, he throws a punch as though he will strike first. You can imagine what then happens.

"Boxing commissions, with the power to suspend a boxer's life, have eliminated this evil. It was quite common, however, in the old days.

"In recent years, boxers have been accused of using various forms of powdered preparations on their hands, which will harden when water is poured on them. Jackie Cooper, still under water inside the gloves between rounds. The late Pancho Villa was accused of resorting to this practice, but nobody ever proved the charge.

"There has also been a few cases where a manager of a boxer has had this powder placed in the handkerchief for such a way that it can only be detected by tasting the handkerchief. This is why I always take the handkerchief of the opponents of the men I am boxing for Big Jack to bring home the bacon on June 21st. "Sock that Dutchman one for me, Jackie," was Little Jackie's farewell words.

SEALATORS JACK ONE HUPPER

By JOE CASHMAN

"The American League race is a three-cornered, battle among the Senators Yankees and Athletics, just as it has been ever since 1912. The Tigers and Indians are now within hailing distance of the top, but both will be outdistanced before long."

Thus did Walter Johnson, most popular of big league pitchers, express himself as he started the second-place Senators out to Fenway Park today for a doubleheader with our Sox.

"And my club, I firmly believe, and better than an even chance of winning out," continued "A. Barney, warming up to the gun."

Both the Yankees and the Athletics have been playing great ball of late while we have been a bad slump. Yet, with our pitching erratic and our hitting weak, we have managed to stay in the race. The Yankees and the Athletics are now within hailing distance of the top, but both will be outdistanced before long."

"If we can hold our own with these rivals while we are at our wits' end, we have a good chance to fall in pull away from them when we regain our real stride."

"Best Balanced Club in League"

"In top form, I think we are the best balanced club in the league. We are strong defensively in every position, we have some of the most dangerous hitters in the circuit in Crain, Munnich, Reynolds, Ayer and Baggett. I may not acquire a hurler of that caliber but if I do, I think I will have enough pitching strength to get by providing neither the Sox nor Athletics can win this race and get a fourth place finish."

"The Sox are another three-man ball club, Grover, Earle, and Egan. I don't think they can, and you stop that gro, if you can, and help stop the champion."

Fourth Pennant Too Much to Expect

"No club, however, has ever been strong enough to capture the American League pennant four years running and I don't think the Sox can win this race and get a record with only two winning pitchers. I may be wrong, but I think that Simmons and Cochrane should improve a lot as the season progresses."

"Nine good players should be on the team. I think the Sox are a fine club that must rely on a few outstanding players available. This why I have visions of the Sox winning the pennant from the Washington flag pole, even if it is a long shot. I don't think as the Macklin race, or no hitter as dangerous as the Gotham hammer-bun twain."

"Met' Swim Club to Hold Meet Tomorrow"

The Metropolitan Swimming Club and the Boston Y. M. C. A. will hold the final indoor swimming meet of the season in the Boston Y. M. C. A. pool tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock. The events listed are the 100 yards backstroke, 100 yards breaststroke and invitation diving.

MARCHING ALONG -- "Ouch! Leggo of My Leg" Cries Washburn -- IN SPORTS' PARADE

Jack Washburn gave Sandoz Szabo the leg in their Boston Garden wrestling bout and Szabo took it willingly and tried to go places with it. The little Hungarian, who lost in straight falls, is making "Gentleman Jack" do a very unwilling stip. Washburn later showed he was no true gentleman by kicking Sandoz square in the chin. Then he pounced on him for the second fall. Great stuff, unless you'd rather play the piano.

If she loses a steel sinner with such vehemence it wouldn't do to get Miss Margaret Burke throwing fragile china once at you. Miss Burke is an Olympic discus prospect and has thrown the discus 110 feet recently. She will be in the tryouts at the Fen Stadium on June 12 under the direction of Park Commissioner Long.

JIM CONNOLLY snapped at Kennedy's holding the medal he won at Athens in 1906, as the first Olympic winner in 1900 years. He is a famous author as well as a famous athlete. Connolly was member of Uncle Sam's first Olympic Team.

English folk, from prince down to peasant, figured that April the Fifth couldn't come first so they bet $10,000,000, more or less, on Orwell to win the classical Epom Downs Derby. April the Fifth, above, did come first and Britain found out that $10,000,000 can be wrong. A rank outsider, April the Fifth, romped home in the good old Derby. Orwell, his favorite, was far beyond the money.

Gallery God Hurls Crab at 'Gentleman Jack'

By RINGSIDE

When "Gentleman" Jack Washburn set himself up as world's heavyweight wrestling champion at the Boston Garden, a gallery god crowned him with a soft shell crab.

Another puffed-up fan sent a box of candy clubs to "Gentleman" Jack's den. There were numerous minor contributions, such as cigar butts, newspapers and leafy perils.

Despite all this the coronation ceremonies were merely formal. Washburn may not be able to lick Dolan, London and Lewis, but he proved conclusively he is master of Sandoz Szabo.

Washburn won the first fall when he lowered his opponent, clad by a toss from the ring, to 15m. 2s. while "Gentleman" Jack gained the winning fall in 2m. 40s. following his victory over Szabo.

Washburn posted checks for $11,000 with Jack Conway of the Boston Evening American. A check for $10,000 is to go as a forfeit to bind a match with Dolan, London or Lewis. A check for $1,000 is to seal a bout with Charley French.

Says He's Ready for Charlie Strack

"Gentleman" Jack, dressed in street clothes, hopped into the ring.

"I'm ready for Strack now," he announced. "He's been doing a lot of cheap talking. My money is on me. Let him come. If he does, I'll let him know I'm not a dummy." As Washburn went to his dressing room, he made a few preliminary remarks about Dolan and London.

"With 11 grand on the line, as the boys at the race track put it, I can't accuse Washburn of bluffing. It looks to me as if he has put the big boys of the wrestling game in the hole, especially Strack, the big particular opponent of Dolan and London.

Mike Shumans of Worcester and Tiger Jack Young of Quincy went to 10m. draw.

Mike Nazarian of Boston tossed Tiger Jack Young after 10m. 37s. of wrestling with a body lift and cradle hold.

Mike Romano of New York finally busted into the win column when he won from Doug Wyckoff of Georgia Tech with a body lift and arm in 15m. 10s.

Cannoball Herman Hickman of Worcester, former All-American guard, held Eoka Kola Kwariani of Russia in a draw in a 30-minute bout. Hickman took some desperate chances in an effort to win with a flying tackle. On several occasions he had Kwariani in poor condition, but the Russian's experience enabled him to weather the fire.

Dr. Ralph Wilson of Philadelphia disposed of Gene Ledezian of Canada in 10m. 2s. with a flying mule and body press.

Howard Cantonment of Iowa landed George Johnson of Maryland his first wrestling defeat when he tossed him in an arm. No, with a reverse double wing lock.

Frank Kirmann of Texas used a flying body scissor to defeat Bill Komar of New York in 10m. 12s.

The show was witnessed by 4000 fans.

Chuck Klein and Don Heston, Phillies—They drew the eighth drive in the runs that linked the Giants.

Stimule Fox and Miss Bishop, Athletics—Each hit a home run in the eighth spot. Fox hit his 10th of the year, to beat the Yankees twice, 6 to 5 and 5 to 1.

Lloyd Brown, Senators—Was not so good on until the eighth spot, when he pitched Bob Welling of the Red Sox, 5 to 1.

GRID REFORM AT YALE ATTACKED BY STEVENS

New Haven, Conn., June 2 (AP)—The proposed modification of intercollegiate athletics at Yale University, outlined last week and subsequently attacked by three football stars, drew furious criticism today from Dr. Marvin A. "Mar" Stevens, head football coach.

Writing in the Yale Daily News, Stevens argued the plan of the university to eliminate organized professional parties would be unfair to Yale players leaving them on their own for several years.

More hardened opponents as to make the game play.

The proposed system, tailored to fit the house or dormitory plan of residence with intercollegiate sports emphasized, strikes at the very heart of Yale football," Stevens believes.

Elimination of pre-season practices would leave Yale "helplessly outclassed," he wrote.

The proposed five-game schedule would hinge on pre-season practice, he held, attacking the statements that undergraduates do not enjoy drills, the "implied stigma of professionalism" in the contemplated restriction of house teams to amateur coaching, and the proposed abolition of junior varsity football teams.

Caldwell, Former Eli Star, Joins Dodgers

New York, June 2 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers and Yankees announced the signing of Riverdale, former Yale football star and leading batsman of the Eastern League last year.

The Dodgers bought an option on his services last fall but did not exercise it. Caldwell is a first baseman.

Enid Wilson Retains British Golf Crown

Santon, England, June 2 (AP)—Enid Wilson today retained her British women's golf championship, defeating Miss Clem Purvis-Russell-Montgomery, Scottish player, seven and six in the 36-hole final.

THE RATE OF TUMBRILS HEARD IN PROTEST OF THE POOR

By GILBERT SELDES

COULD WE BY ANY CHANCE get our Presidential candidate to tell us exactly what they see, in their mind's eye, when they talk of misery, starvation, broken families, the spectre of hunger, the danger of the dole, and all the other things they will talk about during the next three months? We are told that some people have "visual imaginations"; others hear and do not see. Say "horse" to them and instantly they see a black horse with a bit and bridle; they see only the printed word "horse," but when you say "The Star Spangled Banner" they hear the song at the top of their lungs. Some people see rows of figures as you read them off; some do not. Say "honor" to one and he sees yellow, while another puckers his mouth.

A Threat
It would be good for us to know how our candidates react to the words they themselves use. The reason I say this is that I have received a letter—not the only one—from "the forgotten man" and he makes his plight terribly clear. I will not print his name because he ends his letter with the words: "My son is not going to starve, nor is my wife, nor my child. The expected answer. If I cannot supply them food by labor, I'll get it anyhow." Let him have his chance!

"And So..."
"And so we broke our home. My wife and child are being taken care of by her people, and for myself I am living on my people's charity. I am not going to starve, nor is my wife, nor my child. The expected answer. If I cannot supply them food by labor, I'll get it anyhow." Let him have his chance!

There is something of the homelike boy in that big fellow who has been called the terrible sharky man, the Big Al from Boston. He is a big fellow, a big fellow, a big fellow. He is a big fellow, a big fellow, a big fellow. He is a big fellow, a big fellow, a big fellow.

ADDING TO PROTECT STOCKHOLDERS

By B. C. Forbes

A SENSIBLE STEP. THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE of Commerce has taken a step which is a commendable one in its own special manner. The action of the exchange in recommending that stockholders be notified of the fact that they are not to be considered as being in a position to receive dividends is a commendable one.

The appointment of a committee to study the question of the propriety of the exchange in recommending that stockholders be notified of the fact that they are not to be considered as being in a position to receive dividends is a commendable one. The committee has been appointed and it is to be hoped that it will make a thorough study of the question and report back to the exchange.

Heavy Shrinkage in Bank Stocks
No type of investment is less certain than the purchase of bank stocks. Even the most conservative of investors have suffered heavily from the shrinkage in the value of bank stocks in the last few years. The shrinkage has been so great that many investors have been forced to sell their shares at a loss.

Some day these questions will look grotesque. The shrinkage in the value of bank stocks has been so great that many investors have been forced to sell their shares at a loss. The shrinkage has been so great that many investors have been forced to sell their shares at a loss.

Three years ago, President James R. Bancroft, of the American Institute of Finance, says, "Nothing was impossible to accomplish in this country, according to the theory. Today, based on the same type of psychology, nothing is too bad to predict in regard to the future. The country has been wasted, it is debilitated, its leadership has gone, its future is black. The present psychology is just as ridiculous, we believe, in every particular, as was the opposite psychology of three years ago."

Wall Street, thanks to Washington, is not yet for a brief hour yesterday from its present woes. The one-day Wall Street will see a recovery that will be of no avail.

TAX BILL WENT UP LIKE SKYROCKET FOR THIS MAN
Bill of $3.95 Went Up to $27.32 When Constables Started Collecting

This is the 20th in a series of articles exposing the tax collection racket, a form of extortion which is taking the pockets of honest and law-abiding citizens of Massachusetts.

Fireman's
This was the first time that a fireman had been arrested for tax evasion. The fireman had been arrested for tax evasion and was charged with the same.

NO BILL IN CLINTON
"He has told me that he and his partner have been arrested for tax evasion. He has told me that he and his partner have been arrested for tax evasion."

BONUS TOO HIGH
"I asked him what for. He didn't show any warrant. He asked me if I owned a car and I told him I did. He said I owed him $3.95 tax."

An increase of about 150 per cent in his tax bill was the experience of Ulisse Moscatelli, a Waltham druggist who lives in Watertown. His original bill of $11.75 went up to $27.32 when collection by a constable was made.

The original bill and the receipt from the town of Watertown, shown above, tell better than words the story of tax extortion. The collection was made by Constable Louis Ebbin for an agency at 126 Mass. ave., Boston.

The market "pot" boiled over for a while on the upside, but unfortunately not on the "rice" at the same time. The result was a continuation of the old refrain of lower prices. The house of what Washington will do next is still giving Wall Street the shakes. Added to this is the resumption of the market's interest in the gold question. The gallery still has the S. R. D. sign on its wall with money to buy securities and continue to wait until they can see constructive developments in the offing.

Air conditioning through use of the steam heat system, will be installed on the new line.

Still Liquidating

The sudden drop of selling that damaged hopes of better share prices is put down as out and out liquidation. Besides the banks, who are usually credited with the sale, there are two selling sources which interest the "Street."

The failure of an intermediate bull movement to develop on two occasions depressed sentiment to an unwarranted degree. It may sound excessively optimistic to cling to a faint hope it will soon develop. However, it must be remembered that the rallies failed to hold because of an extraordinary liquidation.

MARKET NEWS OF BROKERS

Shields & Co.—There should be news from Washington that will indicate how much of a rift on the stock bill will develop in the House. If quick, constructive action is indicated, the market will be improved to an extent to give the market a little better appearance, but nothing more than a temporary flourish is likely to interrupt the downward trend for the time being.

COOK-COOKS

By TED COOK

It's a great disappointment to some of us. We thought Congress might give itself a heavy salary cut. And then get mad at itself and stage a walk-out.

As a matter of fact, it looks like the boys will never cut anything but economy bills.

ALL FRANKLIN—The reported statement of a revolution of the California Federation of Women's Clubs in Los Angeles, that "certain way magazines were in only for traveling salesmen to read" drew an inquiry today from the California State Committee for the United Commercial Travelers.

All men are pretty equal now. Every generation the kitchen chair says "there, all pretty equal now."

Directors have a right to use their brains.

Outside of business hours, you must agree:

Then they can luxuriate in mental strains.

And stress—utilizing all their brains.

For cultural or any other gains.

But when they're working, such things should not be.

Directors have no right to use their brains.

Inside of business hours. They must agree!

Everybody Sing: "Happy Days Are Here Again!"

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Congressman Horace Walpole Frisby has signed an agreement with a prominent drug store to sit in the window for eight days, blindfolded and handcuffed, while he thinks up a way to put the country back on its feet.

"I wouldn't dare accept this challenge," said Frisby, in a written message to shoppers, while demonstrating fountain pens, "if I had nothing up my sleeve. My idea—like all great ideas—is so simple that people may not understand it. It is a word, without being too suggestive. I will propose that every man, woman and child in America go into voluntary bankruptcy, and then buy back their own assets at 50 cents on the dollar."

Bank Depositors Throughout Nation Deserve Protection

Under the able leadership of Speaker Garner the House has passed the Steagall bill to provide better protection for depositors in all banks. The Federal Reserve System. By the terms of the bill, the Federal Reserve System is to be made responsible for the safety of deposits in banks that fail. To administer the guaranty fund the Steagall bill provides for the establishment of a board to consist of the Secretary of the Treasury, the Comptroller of the Currency and three members appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

It increases from twenty-five thousand to fifty thousand dollars the minimum capital a bank must have before it can receive a national charter.

This change in the National Banking Law will eliminate from our banking system those units not sufficiently equipped with capital to justify their being entrusted with the deposits of a community.

The Steagall bill restores to the Federal Reserve Law substantially the same guaranty provision which that measure contained when it passed the Senate in 1913.

This guaranty provision drafted by Senator John Sharpe Williams, of Mississippi, was eliminated in conference upon the theory that the new system might not succeed.

Experience has proved how ill-founded this theory was. The Federal Reserve System has already made net profits amounting to more than $508,000,000. And this does not include expenditures for building and for the system's operation.

If the Senate will follow the leadership of the House and pass the Steagall bill before adjournment, Congress will act effectively to end hoarding, relieve distress, and restore confidence.

Come and See Us!

New England Ideal Summer Playground

A year ago at this time the Boston Evening American urged every resident of New England to constitute himself a committee of one to promote New England as the ideal Summer playground and recreational center.

The idea was for every New Englander merely to send a letter, note or postcard to some acquaintance or friend elsewhere in the country urging him to pass his vacation here.

We needed only to be reminded that in its lakes, seacoasts, beaches, mountain resorts and beautiful valleys, with all their facilities for Summer sports and pastimes, New England is excelled nowhere in the world.

And in this country at least, there is no section so replete with interesting history and with sacred shrines, redolent with the memories of America's birth.

The Summer resort people liked the idea. It brought to them a vast volume of Summer patronage which they otherwise would not have obtained.

Well, if it was good for them, it was good for all of us. We are all New Englanders, with common purposes, and anything which promotes the welfare of one great industry is bound to accumulate to the value of all.

Let's do it again this year. Do it today. We are on the verge of the new Summer season. Don't wait until it is too late.

Vandiver of Missouri

The motto of the Ozark State, "Salus Populi Suprema Lex Esto"—"The Will of the People is the Supreme Law"—still remains official, but four million natives have rejected it for "I'm From Missouri; You've Got to Show Me!"

The shag-haired orator of St. Louis, Willard D. Vandiver, who died this week, originated it back in 1904. It has been more widely quoted than anything that Mark Twain, another Missourian, ever wrote.

"Show Me!" became the official nickname of the State. By popular consent it was decreed that all Missourians, wherever they travel, should be protected in their right to demand to be shown. Ever since, the "Show Me" has lived up to its name.

Champ Clark thought it pretty good; as good as anything in Aristotle, who said "Incredulity is the source of all wisdom." Kansas "Jayhawkers," Arkansas "Toothpicks," Nebraska "Bugeaters" and Illinois "Suckers" gnashed their teeth and said it proved the Missourians were too dull to apprehend the simplest thing—and had to be shown. To which the only reply from the Ozarks was the thunderous yell, "Show me!"

The Matriarchy

The reign of women is coming, Joseph Hergeshelheimer insists. He declares women have made great strides in the last twenty years, they have now 45 per cent of the nation's wealth, and man is becoming a more useless animal each day. The State has taken over most of his functions, and what good is he?

"The matriarchy will be along any time now."

What of it? Will the voice of women in the Cabinet and Congress make the laws and counsel of the nation more stupid and cramping than they are now?

This is to be doubted. Nothing could depress the intellectual level of the laws and counsels of the nation. If the women cannot raise it, they cannot lower it appreciably. There is place for men in that thought.

Words of the Wise Men

East or West: Home is best. The master of the house is the servant of the guests.

A starved town is soon forced to surrender. An ounce of discretion is worth a pound of wit.

For a man in a fever it is unwise to change beds.

An ounce of oil is worth a ton of powder.

The worst sorrows in life are not the losses and misfortunes, but the fears.

New York Day by Day

Cultural Currents

NEW YORK, June 2.—Manhattan's cultural currents have not completely dried up, despite Harlem hot-chica speakery flourishes, cocktail drag-outs and sundry manifestations of a world on the bet.

The visitor is naturally impressed with the pretentious phonies of the Broadway lury.

Sandwich parlors fill every dawn with debauches of the furthest night. On every side in mid-town are the loose living imprints of lewises and the buckaroo. It is only after lunch here many years one cracks the veneer and beholds the New York of decent standards and singular sincerity.

Monday lectures on current topics bring out capacity audiences. Morning musicals fill ball rooms of late hotels. John McCormack can bring an over-flow crowd to Carnegie with a mere announcement of a recital over the portals. Sunday symphonies muster silk hats. So do gallery teas.

Ruth Draper and Cornelius Otis Skinner, in polite mimicry, do a bigger business than many high-priced leg shows. William Beebe and other explorers turn crowds away. Every ceramic exhibit attracts intellectuals to whom Broadway is as remote as Kamchatka. Art film houses pay good dividends.

In sedate, moderately priced tea rooms one may often see such humanitarians as Helen Gould entreating at dinner. The one restaurant in New York where smoking cigarettes by women is forbidden is always crowded. All of which is inspired by sight of a capacity audience at an afternoon lecture on "The Future of Art."

The hip flapper, incidentally, has gone out like a light. Five years ago a dozen manufacturers were reaping a harvest. Today there are a few takers. Drink toters carry booze in bottles, done in packages and handed to headwaiters to be served. This prevents bulging of clothing and leaving leaks on tables.

The other evening at vaudeville, a long performance and the failure of an electrical announcer to call caused the audience to arise en masse for the exits. Just a quartet of hoop rollers came on to close the show. Only a handful, probably twenty, remained. Yet not once did the act's routine sag. It was the only time the vaudeville heart wrench for valiant troops. And when they rushed to the footlights for a final bow every cheek glowed with tears. And as if as who had determined wait out into the night with the suspicion of a choke.

Not goodly enough, I must get monstrosity.

the curtain fell and gave the performers a rousing cheer.

Thingumbos: Corey Ford called him for a ride. The police aren't camping on his trail. Yet he's just as sure as the sun is doomed to be "rubbed out" as though he faced machine guns.

Who's handing him such a dirty deal? You'll be surprised.

H. E. H. M. S. E. L. F. He, himself, has put himself on the spot.

He has put himself on the spot.

BY HIS OWN INDECISION! Indecision. That doesn't seem a very serious thing, does it? You laugh at the chap who can't make up his own mind. Perhaps you despise him a little. You may even become irritated if his wobbling interferes with your own program. But you certainly don't think of him with horror as you'd think of a man about to be shot, stabbed, poisoned or strangled.

AND YET A MAN'S OWN INDECISION CAN MESS UP HIS LIFE AS BADLY AS ANY ASSASSIN'S BULLET.

The man who can't make up his mind is like a poor rabbit, torn by nervous beats.

Desire yanks him one way. Fear grabs him the other.

Between them, the poor, weak man struggles, writhes, twists, quivers, stutters, sobs, faints—in an agony of indecision.

And this does not happen just once, in some particular emergency. The man who has not learned to make up his mind is always in emergency; for life presents one dilemma after another, and at each juncture the man who cannot decide is in a state of mental distress.

From the moment he rises and has to decide what to eat for breakfast, on through the day with its thousands of trifling problems which must be handled, that man must use his mind. And if he can't drive his mind, if he has no power of decision, then his life is a mess of every person and every circumstance. He literally can't "call his soul his own."

Millions of discouraged, bewildered human beings wander through life, failing in all they attempt, casting bitter blame on God or society or their families for their predicament; when, actually, all that ails them is that—THEY HAVE NEVER LEARNED TO MAKE UP THEIR OWN MINDS.

For this business of making-up one's mind is not a natural habit. It must be learned.

The young born child does not know how to use his mind any more than he knows how to use his hands or his feet. He must learn to control his feet, to aim his gestures. It is hard to learn. He learns by "trial and error," by adding today's wrongs and suffering the consequences. Presently he learns to do things right and escape unhappy consequences.

And the child must learn how to make-up his mind in the same way. He must decide which thought to think, which act to choose. And unless he does learn to decide, he will be as miserable, as ridiculous, as tragic as the idiotic child which never learns to walk or feed itself, or to add today's wrongs to yesterday's.

FOR YOUR CHILD! Force it to make its own decisions and abide by them, or it will be a source of suffering. And don't try to relieve it of that suffering, or you will be doing it a ghastly injury.

IF YOU ARE AN ADULT. DO ALL YOU CAN TO MAKE DECISIONS FOR YOU. Make your own decisions, even if some of them are wrong.

A wrong decision may gum up your program, but it will harden up your spine, and that's the important thing. Without that, you'll have about as much standing in the human game as a fish worm.

Just Folks

City Pigeons

I watched them from the windows, common pigeons in a flock. Who make their nests in nooks of stone which line a city block. And I wondered, with the country fresh and green not far away, Why there among the haunts of trade those birds prefer to stay.

No blade of grass is left them and no warm, fresh earth to tread! Today the sun is shining and blue skies are overhead. But the city pigeons linger in cathedral aisles of gloom. And seem to be contented where no tree comes into bloom.

It would seem that birds of freedom would not linger in the town. Where all is cold and harsh and grim and men rush up and down. But winter comes to woodland and snow the valley fills. And gentle folks in buildings tall strew crumbs on window sills.

For as I watched and pondered I saw across the way A woman place some bits of bread upon the granite gray. And all the pigeons knew her and knew the meal was good. And why they choose to stay in town I think I understood.

Canada Uses Liquor Control to Finance Unemployment Relief

By M. Grattan O'Leary

Noted Canadian Journalist.

GOVERNMENT control of the sale of liquor is proving more than a financial sheet anchor for Canadian provinces. According to a report by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics (an official Government organization), it brought $43,000,000 into the Federal treasury last year, KEPT DOWN GENERAL TAXATION and PRACTICALLY FINANCED THE DOMINION'S PROGRAM OF UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF.

Dominion revenue from liquor is, in fact, greater than the combined liquor revenue of the provinces. Thus while provincial liquor profits over the last five-year period have totalled $152,000,000 the revenues of the Dominion from liquor taxes reached $252,000,000. For all governments—Dominion and provincial—the total of liquor incomes was $405,000,000.

This takes in but five years. Going back ten years, and taking in the Government control system from its inception, the total of Dominion revenue from liquor is $399,000,000.

WHAT this revenue from liquor has meant and means to the Dominion's financial structure and to its taxation may be realized by a glance at the Federal record of surpluses and deficits during this ten-year period. Between 1922 and 1931 Canada had three years which produced a deficit, seven which produced a surplus, this leaving a FAVORABLE BALANCE FOR THE DECADE OF THIRTY MILLION DOLLARS.

Without liquor receipts, or, to state the position in another way, with prohibition, THERE WOULD HAVE BEEN A DEFICIT OF ABOUT $750,000,000, or there would have been need for a drastic heightening of rates of general taxation.

Federal revenue from liquor, indeed, has been more than enough to take care of all the deficits from the country's publicly-owned railway system; almost enough to finance a great portion of the railways' capital expenditures.

In nine years the Canadian National Railways, taking account of their interest charges, have lost $131,000,000. The Dominion Government could have paid this loss out of liquor receipts and still have had $242,000,000 left with which to take care of other accounts.

Only two taxes in Canada—the sales tax and the income tax—bring in more revenue than the liquor tax. During the past two years, however, 1930 and 1931, the liquor tax brought in more than the sales tax, and it has always produced more than the tax on individual incomes. The tax on individual incomes in Canada has ranged between fifteen and twenty millions a year. If, therefore, liquor revenues were lost, and it became necessary to make up what they contribute by some other tax, the probability is that the tax on incomes in Canada would have to be doubled, and certainly increased substantially above the present scale.

Moreover, experience has shown that revenue from liquor taxes stands up against depression better than revenue from other taxes. Thus while revenue from a 1 per cent sales tax fell from forty-four millions in 1930 to but twenty millions in 1931, a drop of more than 50 per cent, liquor receipts fell off by only 25 per cent.

What this liquor revenue has meant to the Dominion Government these past two years is that it has been able, without much resort to higher taxation, TO FINANCE AN AMBITIOUS PROGRAM OF UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF. The receipts from liquor taxation paid the entire cost of the outlay for unemployment in 1931 and had $5,000,000 to spare. For Dominion and the provinces together the expenditure for relief works and for direct relief was $76,000,000; combined federal and provincial liquor receipts were $73,000,000.

One of the best features of liquor revenue, from a taxation standpoint, is that it is relatively painless, that this tax in the last analysis is paid by the consumer without thought, frequently without knowledge on the part of the liquor consumer.

THE DOMINION GOVERNMENT has built up a very simple yet complete system to collect the revenue.

There is an excise on spirits of $9 per gallon. The customs duty on imported spirits is $10 per gallon. (This to give the Canadian distiller a protection of $1 per gallon.)

Thus, when a Canadian goes into a Government liquor store and purchases a bottle of Canadian whiskey for $4, $2.25 of this amount is a tax. If he should happen to buy a bottle of Scotch or Irish whiskey at $4, then the tax on the bottle is $2.50.

Even then the distiller, whether in Scotland, Ireland or Canada, doesn't get the balance. There has to be taken from what is left the selling charges, the operating costs and the very considerable profits of the various liquor commissions.

When a United States bootlegger lands a cargo from Rum Row, avoids all taxation upon it and disposes of it at prices ranging from between $4 and $8 a quart his profits are considerable. He is putting INTO HIS POCKET what, IN CANADA, goes into the treasuries of the Dominion and provincial governments.

Canadian governments and the Canadian people derive direct and considerable benefit from this liquor revenue and the gain is not being achieved at the moral expense of the nation.

Liquor consumption in Canada and drunkenness in Canada are actually on the decrease.

Repeal Works Wonders

Reports come from Finland that since the repeal of prohibition social order has improved, drunkenness has decreased, smuggling and the illicit traffic in liquors are near the vanishing point and there is a marked diminution of crime.

These changes have been wrought in a period of a few weeks. The beneficial results of repeal surpass all expectation and all prediction.

The parties of prohibition are silent. Their gloomy forebodings of what would follow upon a restoration of rational liquor control have not, IN ANY MEASURE, EVER, been realized.

When will these afflicted United States do as Finland, Canada, Sweden and other enlightened States have done, and throw off the shackles of the "played-out experiment" no longer called, EVEN IN DERISION, "the noble experiment."
